

ABSTRACT OF THE DISCLOSURE

A wall plug is suitable for connecting an item of telecommunications equipment to a telecommunications ~~network, wherein the~~ network. The equipment and the network are separated by a wall, the wall including a bore communicating through the ~~wall, the wall~~. The device ~~comprising~~ includes a hollow body in the form of a tube engageable in the bore, the tube ~~including~~ including a termination ~~means~~ to terminate a cable connected to the telecommunications ~~network, and connection means to receive~~ network. A connection is made to a connector of the item of telecommunications equipment, the termination and ~~connection~~ means connection being so arranged that with a cable terminated on the termination ~~means~~, connection of the connector to the connection ~~means~~ provides an interconnection between the equipment and the network.